Dear Customers, Partners and Industry Leaders:

I am pleased to announce that Physio-Control has taken another major step in our business strategy by successfully completing the acquisition of Jolife AB, the maker of the LUCAS™ Chest Compression System. Jolife AB, headquartered in Lund, Sweden is now a key component of the Physio-Control business.

Physio-Control has a strategy to proactively develop and acquire innovative technologies that expand the range of tools and solutions available to our medical emergency response customers. The Jolife acquisition is fully aligned with that strategy.

Our Mission is to provide lifesaving tools for lifesaving teams. As you may be aware, the partnership between Physio-Control and Jolife began in 2004. Together, we have helped develop the early stages of the mechanical CPR device market and it is our belief that this technology will become a mainstay in the field of resuscitation in the future.

As we integrate our two companies, our priority will be to continue providing our customers with the same level of support that they expect. Please continue to use your same primary contacts at Physio-Control and at Jolife as we continue our Mission and build one united team.

Best regards,
